

‘Hijas del aire. Sueño de Balladyna’ will be premiered tomorrow in Poland under Ignacio García’s direction

The text merges the story of the two protagonists from the works of Stowacki and Calderón; and it will be possible to see it during the 42nd edition of the Almagro Festival

Madrid, 15th of March 2019

The J. Kochanowski Theatre of Opole (Poland) is welcoming tomorrow Saturday, 16th of march, the first presentation of Hijas del aire. Sueño de Balladyna, poetic story about the clash between the Good and the Evil, love with jealousy, the old age and the youth, starting with the story of the protagonists of Stowacki’s Balladyna; and with Calderón’s La hija del aire. The work, directed by Ignacio García, with Anna Galas and José Gabriel López Antuñano’s play-wright, will be presented in Spain during the 42nd edition of the Almagro International Festival of Classical Theatre.

Two sisters, a crown and an uncontrolled desire for power. The search for happiness that once was achieved it can only be an illusion. An instant of tranquility disappearing in a moment and then, nothing can be preserved without being corrupted. The doubt appears, the conviction that what one's own is only in our mind and it is true fiction, a dream, as Calderón would say. We merge into something else, we corrupt ourselves and we die step by step in this inevitable degradation. Nevertheless, there are people that will fight until death for these values: Love? Power? Do traitors guilty of their betrayal always have to be acclaimed? This story is about what intoxicate us, what ruin us, what decay within us, but also the search for an intimate answer and an internal one on how to survive this degradation. It is about how to learn to coexist, respect and understand each other and about the blinding ambition that prevent us seeing what really matters.
